Provence, France

Jill Louise Campbell

Jill Campbell grew up in Montreal where she studied art prior to attending the Sorbonne University in Paris, France. Jill's fanciful and unique style has attracted many enthusiasts and her paintings are now in private collections across Canada and in Europe, Japan and the United States.

Together with her family, Jill recently lived for a year in Europe and spent six months in the heart of the "Provence" region of southern France. This time allowed her to be immersed in this magical country life of France and to experience first hand, the special light for which Provence has been famous for centuries. Her paintings of Southern France bring the countryside to life in her own very special style.

Upon returning to Canada the family settled on Salt Spring Island, an artists hideaway close to Vancouver. Jill's full attention is now devoted to bringing these many experiences to life in a style that has been described as "joyfully whimsical and refreshing".

Jill Campbell's paintings and Limited Edition Prints are available through a growing number of galleries, decorating stores and boutiques. For more information on upcoming events and locations where her prints are sold - please contact:
